BANK PRESIDENTS SNUBBED..

SECRETARY CARLISLE DID NOT OFFER TO CONSULT WITH THEM.

HE MIGHT HAVE LEARNED MUCH IF HE HAD FOLLOWED PRECEDENTS SET BY STREET SECRETARIES - OFF FOR GRAY GABLES.

John G. Carlisle, the Secretary of the Treasury has not benefited himself at all by his actions yesterday. It is well known that the presidents of National banks in this city, by supporting one another, and by presenting a strong front against the tide of financial depression, have done more tiffin any other single body of men to check threatened disaster. Yet the Secretary of the Treas-ury ignored them absolutely yesterday, and re-fused to meet any of them. This is the first time in many years that a Secretary of the Treasury to New-York and not called in fo consultation some of the National bank presidents. One bank president said that this was due to the fact that Mr. Carlisle was afraid of the silver men, who might say that he had taken his views from Wall Street. Mr. Caritisle evidently imagined that his chance of being the Democratic nominee for President in 1896 would be interfered with materially should be meet the New-York bankers.

After meeting a number of men uptown yesterday the Secretary went to the Lawyers' Club, in Equitable Building, where he met Conrad N Jordan, the Assistant United States Treasurer, and took luncheon with him. While he was there number of National bank presidents n easy reach of a summons. None Consequently it was plainly appar-that the Secretary did not want to have anything to do with the National bank presidents of this city. They could have given to him much important information regarding the financial situation, and he could have carried to Gray Gables a great deal of valuable information If he had followed the precedent set by former secretaries, and taken the New-York bankers into

The Secretary of the Treasury is not called upon to make any recommendation to Congress at an extra session, and I will not do so unless I am called upon. I will not say anything about the recommendations that I have made to the President, I think that it is an excellent thing for the savings banks to sell their United States bonds to the National banks, so that the National banks can take out currency upon them. I have always been in favor of allowing the banks to take out currency to the par value of the bonds. A bill to allow them to do so has passed the Senate three times, and I always have voted for it." The conditions seem to be better here to-day, said a reporter.

"Yes; stocks are higher, but it seems to me that there are nothing but bears here. That is the only kind of animal you have here. Bears! bears!! bears!!! I intend to leave here this afternoon for dent until he returns to Washington."

The Secretary left the Sub-Treasury where he gave out this interview a few minutes before 5 o'clock, to take a steamer for Fall River.

Secretary Carlisle spent the forenoon quietly at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. He sent word to the reporters that he had no programme for the day, but would receive all who called on departmental or other business. His "departmental" caliers were three: James T. Kilbreth, the newly appointed Collector of this port: Colonel M. L. Montgomery, chief of the special Treasury agents, and "Kunnel" Soharf, who is making a more or less virtuous effort to purify the customs service here, and incidentally to get himself before the public and also "solid" with his political superiors. Other callers were Colonel W. R. Ray, president of the Citizens' National Bank, of Louisville; Attila Cox, president of the Columbian Trust Company, of Louisville, and Thomas Sherley, also of Louisville, They called presumably on "other" business. At any rate, they informed reporters that they had not discussed financial matters with the Secretary. The Secretary left the Sub-Treasury where he

A YOUNG WOMAN'S SUICIDE.

MISS M. BARDWELL, EOSTON," FOUND DEAD ON HER BED.

SHE HAD SHOT HERSELF IN THE TEMPLE-LITTLE KNOWN ABOUT HER AND NO MOTIVE FOR THE DEED GIVEN.

A fair young woman, about twenty-seven years old, shot herself dead in her room at the United States Hotel, at Pearl and Fulton sts., some time during Tuesday night. She was found in her room by the hotel clerk at noon yesterday. There was on Tuesday evening. She carried a small hand satchel. Her name appears on the hotel register to "Miss M. Bardwell, Boston." After she had registered and paid her bill she went to her room. The young woman was neatly dressed. She wore a black serge dress and a white waist. It was noticed that all her clothing was new, Early Tuesday evening she sent a message to Mrs. Mur-rey, of No. 23 Eighth-ave. Mrs. Murray came to the hotel about 9:30 o'clock that evening and saw the young woman. About noon yesterday Mrs. Murray telephoned to the hotel and asked how Miss Bardwell was. The clerk went to her room, Miss Bardwell was. The clerk went to her room, and, getting no response, went in with a pass key. He found her stretched across the bed with only a nightdress on. Her feet were resting on the floor. In her right temple there was a bullet wound from which considerable blood had flowed. The hotel clerk immediately answered Mrs. Murray's telephone message, asking her to come to the hotel at once. When she arrived she said that Miss Bardwell had boarded with her until Tuesday of last week; and that her call at the hotel on Tues day evening was in response to a message from Miss Bardwell saying that she was ill. Mrs. Murray said that she did not find her ill. Coroner McKenna and Dr. Weston reached the hotel about the same time that Mrs. Murray did, and it was to them that she made her statement, only portion of which was given to the reporters Coroner McKenna and Dr. Weston examined the body. They found in the room a box of cartridges. The shooting was done with a 22-calibre revolver.

Dr. Weston said that the young woman's name was correct on the register. Mrs. Murray told the Coroner that Miss Bardwell had some means of r own, and was not obliged to work for a living Her guardian, Mrs. Murray said, was John Lovitt. of No. 53 State-st., Boston, Benjamin Bates Bardwell, of No. 408 Boylston-st., Boston, is said to be her brother. Dispatches announcing Miss Bardwell's suicide were sent to both these addresses.

Mrs. Murray told the Coroner that Miss Bardwell's parents were dead. She also said that Miss Bard-parents were dead. She also said that Miss Bardwell left her house suddenly last week and went to South Brooklyn to live.

When Mrs. Murray was seen at her home last evening she refused to say anything about the conversation she had had with Miss Bardwell on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Murray, however, assured all who questioned her that Miss Bardwell was a respectable young woman. The neighbors verified this statement, saying that she was regular in her habits, which were above reproach. Mrs. Murray received the following dispatch from Boston last evenins:

"Have body prepared and cared for, and I will accompany with relatives. I am executor of her will. Write particulars later

"WINTHROP H. WADE."

Mrs. Murray brought the dispatch to D. Mooney & Sons' undertaking establishment, at No. 95 Greenwich-st, where the body had been taken at 9 o'clock last evening. Soon after she left the undertaking rooms a fine-looking, well-dressed young man came in to look at the body. He did not give his name, but he said that he had known Miss Bariwell for several years. She had four brothers, he said, who lived in the suburbs of Boston, He sail that he saw Miss Bardwell a few nights ago in Broodway. He spoke to her and noticed that she did not appear the same as usual. For some time past, he said, she had acted queerly. She had not been on the best of terms with her brothers, and he believed this fact preyed on her mind and affected it seriously.

THE ARCHBISHOP HAS NOT GONE TO ROME

CATHOLIC PRELATES UNWILLING TO DISCUSS CHURCH MATTERS.

It was said yesterday that Archbishop Corrigan had left town secretly and had gone to Rome in response to a summons from the Pope. The rumor proved to be unfounded. ### AFFAIRS IN BROOKLYN

CHARGES AGAINST COL CLOBRIDGE

HE IS ARRESTED AS AN ALLEGED ACCOMPLICE OF JOHN CUTTS IN THE TAX REBATE

FRAUDS-SURPRISE IN MILI-TARY CIRCLES.

Selden C. Clobridge, lieutenant-colonel of the 14th Regiment, was arrested yesterday on a charge of grand larceny in connection with the tax-rebate frauds, for which John Cutts was arrested on Tuesday. Cutts alleges that Clobridge, who has been an assistant bookkeeper in the Tax Department for fifteen years, is the principal in the frauds, and that he simply acted as his agent. About ten days ago Tax Collector Swan learned through his chief clerk that Cutts had collected rebates of taxes for local improvements upon property he did not own and was not agent for. In order to secure the information upon which to put in the claims it was necessary for Cutts to learn the names of persons to whom money was due as recorded in the Tax Office. An investigation was begun to find his accomplice, but Lieutenant-Colonel Clo-bridge's reputation was such that he was not suspected until after Cutts had been arrested. latter made the following statement to Detective Sergeant Shaughnessey

"Colonel Clobridge is to blame for all this. I did not know there was anything crooked in it. He and I are old Grand Army and regimental caums. I was not doing anything about two years ago, and he came to me and said that he would give me a chance to make some money. He said he had been appointed agent for a large amount of real estate, and it was his duty to collect certain amounts that had been overpaid by the owners for special assessments. His official position prevented him from acting openly in the matter, and he wanted me to act as his agent and draw up the necessary affidavits and collect the money. I was to receive a percentage. Colonel Clobridge furnished all the information and I presented the claims and drew the money, which I paid back to him, getting a percentage of the amounts, 1 did not think that there was anything that smacked in the slightest degree of dishonesty in the transactions. It was not a matter to be talked about, but I supposed Colonel Clobridge was acting with proper author-

Acting on this information, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Colonel Clobridge yesterday morning. He was found at his desk and was asked to step into the collector's office. Detective narello, of the District-Attorney's office, told him Cutts "had given the matter away," and Colonel Clobridge admitted that the statements of Cutts were more than half true and that he got part of the money. He told Tax Collector Swan that he thought the amount secured by the payments to Cutts would not reach $5,000. Clobridge was allowed to return to his desk, but a policeman kept an eye on him. Bagnarello went to Police Justice Walsh and swore to an affidavit giving in detail the facts mentioned. The affidavits of Mr. Rorke and Deputy Controller

Smith were sworn to in the case of Cutts. Colonel Clobridge was then taken into custody on a warrant and arraigned in the Adams Street Police Court. He waived examination and was held to await the action of the Grand Jury. His bail was left with the District-Attorney.

Lieutenant-Colonel Clobridge has been one of the best known of the GrandArmy veterans and National Guardsmen in the city. He is about fifty years old and served in the war in the 115th Regiment. He was twice wounded, losing his right arm. He joined the National Guard after the war and served in the 14th Regiment for several years as major. In 1885 Major Clobridge was elected lleu-tenant-colonel. When Corporal Tanner was was made Tax Collector under Mayor Howell he placed many of his old soldier friends in the office. Colonel Michell and Major Clobridge were among them, and they remained there after Tax Collector Tanner went out of office. Lieutenant-Colonel Clo-bridge had a salary of $1,400 as assistant book-

"Arrah musha, Mr. Campbell," said Mrs. Fogarty, who was tickled at the compliment to her daughter, "that ye may never loose the use of th' tongue,

You say you're a veteran," said "Tom" Willis. "I have that honor," said the Congressman,
"What regiment?" said "Billy" Geoghegan,
"No regiment at all, str," said "Tim" pompously, just a natural born colonel," and as he spoke he strode majestically away.

As the boat and the barges passed Blackwell's

As the boat and the barges passed Blackwell's Island, groups of prisoners could be seen marching and countermarching. Divice, sail Police Justice Ryan, "there is some of your work." "That's all right, John," answered the Tammany magistrate. "Ye had a finger in the pie yerself." And so it went on.

The Irish pipers played "The Rocky Road to Dublin," the girls danced and danced until they were out of breath, and the best of good nature and joility prevailed.

The Congressman from the VIIIth district is a petennial office-holder. Amid the week of matter and the crash of parties he has always held his ground. He maintains a wise refleence and this is the secret of 50 per cent of his "infloence." About 30 per cent us in the keeping of the Oriental Club, and the remaining 20 per cent may with safety be awarded to the women. It will thus be seen that this renowned legislator is sometimes a negative, sometimes a doublful, but never a positive character in American affairs.

When the party went ashore they had dinner, and some fat women ran races in the long grass, to the intense amusement of everybody.

EX GOVERNOR CAMPBELL DÉNIES THE RUMOR.

A dispatch from Columbus, Ohlo, was published yesterday in a moraing paper to the effect that ex-covernor James E. Campbell, of Ohio, had been prevailed upon to accept the Democratic nomination for Governor of Ohio, and make the race against Gov-ernor McKinley. Ex-Governor Campbell has a law thee in the Equitable Building, Although be may take an active part in the campaign he will not accept the nomination. In answer to inquiries as to the truth of the rumor, ex-Governor Campbell said: "You may emphatically contradict that dispatch. Under no consideration whatever would I allow my name to be used this year. Besides, I am not in a financial condition that will warrant me entering the contest. Whom the Democrats will decide to nominate I do not know, but there are a agree. It is yet too far ahead for me to indge or have the nomination.

"I intend to remain to this city until October," on the continued Mr. Camapbell, "at which time I will require to Ohio, where I will remain for the winter."

JERSEY CITY.

HUDSON COUNTY CAN'T SELL ITS BONDS in bonds to sell for which they can find no takers They say that the bonds are perfectly safe. The fact, however, that the bonds are boulevard and bridge securities has caused them to be looked upon with disfavor because of the notorious mismanage-ment and recklessness which have characterized the ment and recklessness which have characterized the conduct of the road since its construction began. These bonds have been on the market, duly advertised, but not one of them has yet been sold. The bonds bear $\Psi_2$ per cent interest, and as they were put on the market before the present financial disturbance began, financiers say they should have been marketed at a premium long ago, and would have been if Hudson County had, a Board of Free-holders in which the public could have confidence. The members of the committee in charge of the matter will meet to-day, and it is said that if they cannot induce the contractors to accept, work will have to stop both on the boulevard and bridges.

SALE OF THE HOTEL GLENHAM Robert L. Cutting has sold to Henry O. Havemeyer,

he Hotel Glenham property at Nos. 153 and 155 Fifth-ave., between Twentleth and Twenty-first sts. The building is six stories high and has a frontage of fifty-nine feet on Fifth-ave., being seventy-five feet deep on one side and 87.7 on the other, the widti feet deep on one side and $1.7 on the other, the width in the rear being irregular. The consideration is about $250,000, Mr. Cutting taking a farm of 320 acres near Stamford as part payment. It is said that the present owner will pull down the hotel and erect an office building on the site.

This building, which has been used as a hotel for more than twenty-five years, was formerly the mansion belonging to the Cutting estate. It was occupied as a family hotel until the latter part of April last. The building got out of repair, and it was de-cided by the owners to sell the site rather than to spend the money necessary to put the hotel in shape for further use.

YONKERS.

The case of Isaac Bell and others against the city of Yonkers, to set aside the assessment for the extension of Herriott-st, sewer westerly into the Hudson River, has been decided by Judge Dykman in favor of the city. . . The new city directory contains 2,061 new names, and has seventy more pages than the directory last year.

An injunction from the Supreme Court, now sitting at Poughkeepsie, has been served on Thomas F. Corbalis, of No. 9 Broadway, restraining him from interfering with the course of the Napperhan River, which flows through his property. . The employes of the Alexander Smith & Sons' carpet mills have been paid off and the mills shut down indefinitely. The salaried employes have received word to take their vacations new, as they may be needed at any time after the 19th of this month. . Extensive improvements will soon be made in the Nepperhan Avenue Baptist Church. The woodwork will be entirely repainted, and new pews and chandeliers will be put in. The ceiling will be tinted and decorated. A baptistry, with suitable dressing rooms will be built, and two pairs of stairs will be put in.
